CHECK FOR NEW LIGHT TO BE MADE

Mrs. H. B. Murray and Mrs. Henry L. Stacy, representing the Morgan County Woman's Club, met Tuesday with Dub Lewis of the State Highway's division of safety and Police Judge John Helton to discuss plans for traffic lights or markers that would help solve West Liberty's traffic problem.

It has been known for some time that certain streets in West Liberty are so badly congested a great part of the time that it is unsafe for pedestrians to cross. Mr. Lewis agreed to send a checker to West Liberty this week to make a count of vehicles at certain crossings and according to Lewis if the count warrants it, along with other considerations, a traffic light will be installed.

"Traffic lights where they are not needed often do more harm than good," said Lewis, citing a town in Nebraska that had no traffic lights at a certain intersection until after a traffic light was installed. "Traffic lights in some instances tend to make people less cautious," he said.

The checker's report, he said, would determine if a light is the answer to the local problem, and added that crosswalks had met with good result in many towns.

GROUP HEARS EDUCATOR AT MEETING HERE

State Supt. Says He Favors Change In State's Constitution

More than a hundred people heard Wendall Butler, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, say that a change in the constitution is necessary in order to bring poorer school districts up to a minimum standard of education for the children.

Teachers and citizens from all parts of Morgan county attended the educational meet here Tuesday evening in the auditorium of Morgan County high school. A delegation from Elliott county also attended.

Supt. Butler, a member of the state senate in 1948 and chairman of the educational committee, is also a former county school superintendent. He holds a Masters degree from the University of Kentucky. Butler was introduced by Morgan County Supt. Carl Stewart, who said that the State Superintendent was working to bring about a better school program and to give all children of the state a chance and an opportunity.

That every school should have qualified teachers, classrooms of sufficient size to accommodate the student assemblage, adequate bus transportation and a smaller pupil-teacher ratio was brought out in Supt. Butler's address. "Hundreds of school buildings are not adequate," he said, "and the state is unable to do anything to help these districts. Bills have often been introduced to provide funds for these purposes, he said, but were 'pigeonholed because it was unconstitutional to appropriate money for buildings or for transportation.'"

He explained under the present system of distribution of school funds, some favored districts received three times as much as others for every child in public school.

Butler said voting to amend Section 186 of the State Constitution, which has been in effect for sixty years, will enable the legislature to give consideration for the needs in counties like Elliott and Morgan.

Many questions were asked the speaker from the audience which indicated the interest in the program.

Mr. Dixon said the laboratory cost was $400 and that it was practically the same kind of laboratory used at the University of Kentucky.

Mr. Dixon said the cost to the farmer was 75 cents and that 25 cents was set aside to purchase equipment that might be needed.

CROSS COUNTRY—KENTUCKY

Season is in for Sunday afternoon motoring... From Pike to Fulton county, Kentuckians are going places, seeing new towns, and moving through neighboring counties. And usually without being conscious of it, they size up every town through which they pass. Why is it that some communities leave a good impression with us when we drive through them, while other towns remain merely a dot on our road maps? Is it the well-kept lawns, wide streets, impressive public buildings... we notice in certain towns and miss in others? Such improvements surely are part of the attractiveness of a town, but are they all that count? At least one community life expert in Kentucky says no!

Dr. Irwin T. Sanders, professor of sociology at the University of Kentucky, says in a revised edition of his book, "Making Good Communities Better," just published by the University of Kentucky Press, that "a stable economy is not the only major trait of 'goodness of life' in a community."

What Kentucky towns have established themselves in your mind's eye? Are they those filled with expensive unused lawns... or are they those with an abundance of yards "marred" by makeshift basketball courts, miniature baseball diamonds, bicycle runs, or hopscotch diagrams? —From Blades of Bluegrass by Boyd Keenan.

OLD REDS DO NOT DIE—THEY JUST FADE

In the last campaign, and for months preceding it, the American people were bombarded with propaganda that Communists lurked in every office and bureau in Washington and were being sheltered and pampered by Truman and Acheson. Radio and television told us Reds in Washington were "selling us out" to the Kremlin, were seeking to "socialize" our industry, our professions, our agriculture. In short, most Americans were led to believe Reds at home were responsible for all our ills.

And a great party won an election by promising to "sweep them out of Washington."

This great party has had control of Washington, lock, stock and barrel for 70 days. We had expected by now they would have rounded up hundreds of Reds in government offices and would have staged a mass trial of these saboteurs for presentation via television as a spectacle for us loyal Americans back home, a spectacle that would help us justify our belief in their slogan "It's time for a change," so we could lick our chops and proclaim proudly that we helped bring these culprits to justice.

The new Congress quickly appropriated some 7 million dollars to finance 26 investigating committees.

Not one of these Reds that Truman and Acheson put into offices and bureaus in Washington has been brought to the bar of justice. And, there's no nerving discovery to keep us on our guard, no detective problems to whet our appetites, not even a hint of tracking down these thousands of Reds that they told us held government jobs and were wrecking our democratic form of government.

Our $300 television set still brings us 20-year-old movies, "Howdy Dood," $84 quiz programs and wrestling. But occasionally, now, we get to see McCarthy assassinate the character of an Ike appointee—the nearest thing to the joy spectacle of a mass trial of Reds that we heard had flourished for 20 years under a socialist regime that threatened democracy.

We don't know whether to turn our new TV set back in or, like the Prodigal Son, go back to our father and vote Democratic.

Modern youth has a lot of energy, a great deal of which is Miss-directed.

REEVES' BAND IN BIG WASHINGTON PARADE

The Ashland high school band, directed by Carl Reeves, former Morgan County high school band director, left Tuesday for the nation's capital where it will represent Kentucky in the National Cherry Blossom Festival in Washington tonight (Thursday). The band consists of 100 members, accompanied by Director Reeves and nine chaperones. In addition to the parade, the band will appear on a Washington television program. A service committee in Ashland raised $2,800 to pay expenses of the trip. Reeves last week appeared on Nick Basso's WSAZ-TV news program.

IN LOVING MEMORY

Of Linda Joan Hall

There is little words can say to help and comfort me today. There's even less that I can do, but see my thoughts will be of you, Linda, today on your 6th birthday. We will remember you as one who walked upon this earth, but they never know your soul or understand your heart as much as I remember you, since we had to part. As much as I was part of you and you were part of me and I am a song of long ago you have my memory. They did not know how much we loved you and what each moment meant before the sand ran through the glass and every grain was spent. They will not know the secrets and the happiness we shared and they will never know, Linda Joan, how much we really cared. We think of you in silence, your name we often say. There is nothing left to answer but your picture on the wall. God knows how much we miss you. He counts the tears we shed. But it's sweet to know we will meet again where parting is no more. Although your body is resting beneath the lonely mound of clay, we will try to be prepared to meet you some sweet day.

NEW FIRM WILL OPERATE PLANT IN ROWAN CO.

Cowden Site Will Be Used To Make Dungerees, Report

The former Cowden garment plant in Morehead will be reopened within 30 days by another firm that will use the plant to make dungerees. Rowan county's Town Hall meeting was told last week by J. M. Palmer, president of the Morehead Industrial Association which built and owns the plant building.

Palmer declined to name the company that will take over the plant but said it will start operations with 130 women employees and will increase its force to 200 in four months, that the annual payroll will be over a half million dollars, that the new firm plans to re-hire former Cowden workers and that the firm already has worked out an agreement with the United Brick and Clay Workers of America, an AFL affiliate whereby its employees will affiliate with the brick union.

The plant was built in 1948 by business men of Morehead who subscribed to stock in the industrial foundation.

The Cowden company was employing 200 women when it pulled out of Morehead last fall due to labor trouble. Cowden operates other plants in Kentucky at Mt. Sterling, Lancaster, Springfield and Maysville.

When Cowden operated in Morehead they were affiliated with United Garment Workers of America and this union complained the Brick and Clay Workers, who are strongly organized in this vicinity, interfered. Messers' union denied this.

Palmer told those at the Town Hall meeting: "Morehead and Rowan County has been unjustly accused of being a hot-bed for labor trouble and attributed much of it to the failure of both management and labor to sit down and iron out these problems."

"We are shifting the situation now," he declared, "and making Allie Messer, AFL organizer, and to the union a part of our plans. We want them to have the responsibility, and I know they will handle it properly, of helping to keep this plant going and providing jobs for our people. This is a community project."

"I believe Morehead and Rowan County can set a management labor example for all Kentucky to follow... and this conclusion has been reached after several meetings with the labor leaders where we took our hair down and discussed mutual problems like gentlemen should."

Circular Discusses Black Shank Disease

A new circular of the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture and Home Economics tells how to prevent black-shank disease losses in tobacco.

Use of clean land is stressed—land on which black shank has never been known to exist. Beds and fields should not be subject to overflow; otherwise they may be infested by contaminated water from roads or other sources.

Every kernel of Southern States Hybrids is backed by these two bona-fide guarantees:
First—Southern States Seed Guarantee... a real, honest-to-goodness guarantee with a meaning!
Second—Southern States Replant Agreement... if a poor stand of Southern States Hybrids should occur for reasons other than floods, high water or hail damage, this agreement assures you of sufficient seed to replant your crop... at no cost to you!

Edward and Pat, you have been chosen by your subjects to reign and rule over the MCHS during the winter of '53 . . . King Edward II, you have been a wise counselor in the first grade and it is with deep sorrow and anxiety that we see you leave the first grade to ascend the throne of winter . . . We feel that your warm, affectionate and congenial disposition will melt the heavy snows of winter and usher in a mild and gentle spring.

"Queen Pat, we charge you to help your king in his reign of cold, bleak winter. You have been a good and faithful student of the first grade. Your attendance, scholarship and conduct have been excellent and it is with regret that your seat will remain empty until your reign is over and a seat will be reserved for you next year in the second grade, a seat befitting a queen.

Mild winter weather and extra feeding of hay produced unusual milk yields in Anderson county.

WINTER CARNIVAL ROYALTY

"We now charge both of you to go forth in all power and glory to rule over winter in a wise and judicious manner."

The children who took part in the winter carnival program are the talented youngsters who have been highly complimented for their work in previous programs.

Mrs. Turner and Mrs. Blair share production honors, but give credit to their first graders who gave such a splendid performance.

Mountain Muses

Edited By JOHN D. ENGLE, JR.

Send all poems to Mr. Engle
326 Woodland Avenue, Lexington, Ky.

Miss Mildred Wilbur of New York, now a missionary at Yocum, Ky. and teacher at Upper Pleasant Run School, has written what I would call a Pilgrim's Progress in miniature, a work which would do justice to Bunyan himself. The composition, like Bunyan's, consists of both prose and verse. Here it is:

TWO SEAS
If I were to set out to describe what I consider to be God's most wonderful creation (outside of man) I would not describe the sunset with all its gorgeous colorings, nor a star-lit night when the heavens are arrayed in all their splendor. Neither would I choose any particular section of the world's surface, though it might be graced with untold beauty, with flowery glens, majestic mountains, graceful palms or stately pines. As wonderful as these are—surely the work of a master hand—I would leave them for the description of two great seas. Should you consult your map, you would not find them listed—yet they are the greatest of seas, the boundaries of which only God knows. Do you ask their names? They are precious names, names that indicate the eternal mercies of God. We have read of Ponce de Leon, that explorer who sought diligently after the Fountain of Youth and died an old man, broken in body and spirit because he found it not. But I would tell you of these seas of God, which if discovered by any individual, regardless of age, race, creed or color, would insure him with an everlasting life and eternal joy.

But the explorer for these seas must seek them diligently and follow an exact, secret chart. Should any other course be attempted, the seeker would be doomed to failure and destruction. Should you care to go, I would ask you to start with me.

"What, up that rugged mountain side?"
"Yes, this is the course. There is no other. . . You fall behind, what seek ye now, my friend?"
"This path! I never climbed such ways before. I fear the journey is too much for me. My eyes grow dim, and all around I see thick shadows. But, worst of all, each one portrays myself in wicked deeds I've done. It bears me down. I can't go much further. I see beyond a lake of fire and woe."

"My friend, I know the way is steep. But look and you will find the tracks of feet—of blessed feet that blazed this trail for thee, and which will lead you to the looked-for seas."

"Ah, yes, I see those footprints on the road, and somehow, easier seems to grow my load."

And, lo! instead of fire and woe, I see
A dying man nailed on a cross—made tree!
Dear God! Those dying lips begin to speak
As blood drops fall from pierced hands and feet.

"Let me but listen to His whispered word—"

Such music never by my soul was heard!
He says, He says He's dying there for me,
That my sins nailed Him to that cursed tree!
Oh God, my heart with tearful anguish swells . . .
I see before my eyes a gaping HELL!

"It seems one further step, and down I'd go,
But that dear dying Friend won't have it so.
I see before me there a crimson flood,
A river flowing by me, red with blood.

The blood comes from the wounded side of Him.
He whispers, 'This will wash away your sins.

"Plunge in, and when you rise from out the flow,
You will be as pure as the driven snow.
Plunge in! The river of my precious blood
Will lead you to the Ocean of God's Love."

I plunged, and O, the glorious mystery!
It was as He said that it would be!

"My sin was gone, and hell and death, thank God,
Had vanished in the Ocean of His love.
Each day He bears in mercy toward that shore
Where my eternal soul shall rest secure.

And where, through grace, I'll have a mansion fair
Which He, in Love, has for me there prepared.
"You ask me of the other Sea?"
Ah, yes,
It is the Sea of His Forgetfulness.

And therein has He cast my sin and shame,
To think of them no more. Oh, praise His name!"

Worth more... and why

There's an old saying that a thing is worth what someone is willing to pay for it. Well, if you could tour the wholesale and retail used car auctions around the country, if you could survey hundreds of used car lots you would discover that used Fords bring higher prices than any competitive make—and by substantial amounts.

THAT'S WHY we feel our '53 cars should not be compared with cars in the same price range. Not because our competitors don't do a good job—obviously they do—but because we feel Ford Cars have more in common with the highest priced automobiles. The similarities are far greater than the differences.

For example. Today, the most expensive cars in this country have V-type, 8-cylinder engines. Ford Cars have had this exact same type of engine for over 20 years.

What's more astounding, the current Strato-Star V-8 sells for hundreds of dollars less than several other makers charge for a six-cylinder car. Now there's nothing wrong with a Six but they do cost less to make. Ford makes a Six—the most modern overhead valve Six in the industry. And if it's a six-cylinder car you want, Ford has it and for less money than the V-8, which is as it should be.

What about ride? Here's another Ford similarity with high-priced cars . . . Riding Comfort. One of the misconceptions for many years has been that weight—sheer weight—is what it takes to make a car ride well. Ford has found that you can make a 3000-pound car ride softer and hold the road better by far than many cars that weigh a full 1000 pounds more. In the '53 Ford, for example, front end road shock has been reduced up to 80%. We say it compares most favorably with the heaviest cars sold today.

What about automatic transmissions? It would take the fingers of both hands to count the various kinds of automatic and semi-automatic transmissions on the market today. The one we offer is called Fordomatic. It is the most versatile on the market, it represents the most profound consideration of engine-to-wheel power transfer—and that it does the best job for our engines isn't even open to question. It "shifts" better than you could shift by hand.

What you can see is also important. Here again Ford Cars lead not only in their price field but in the medium and upper brackets as well. Ford visibility is Full-Circle Visibility. This means huge, curved unobstructed glass area, front and rear, plus side windows that allow all passengers what the hotels call "room with a view."

Appearance? A higher price, of course, does not make a car more beautiful. Conversely, beauty in a Ford comes "for free." Ford has found that it costs no more to develop a beautiful car than one that is less pleasing in appearance. You can drive up to the most exclusive doorways in the world and feel perfectly at home in your Ford. Fords "belong" . . . in exactly the same social category as the finest, one-of-kind creations. After all, a Ford is a custom creation multiplied.

What about running costs? Here's one place that Ford's advantages are obvious. For oil and gas economy Ford has the big cars whipped. Ford parts cost less. Ford service charges are less. Ford tire mileage is thousands of miles greater. And, Ford depreciation is the lowest of any car on the market—bar none.

What are Fords made of? Some people have the idea that the costliest cars are made of "better stuff." It's true that some high-priced cars have costlier upholstery and fittings. What Ford has is so good, both in durability and appearance, that you probably could not tell the difference. You might even prefer it, because of its better design and more pleasing appearance.

Then there's the question of sheet metal. If you were to measure and analyze the sheet metal structure in the most expensive car, you most likely would find it identical in thickness to the corresponding panels in Ford.

After all, then, what is the difference between a Ford and the costliest cars?

In our opinion, the difference is largely a matter of dimensions, weight (and the power required to move it) plus the distinction of owning a car that not so many other people own. The desire for these things is understandable . . . and probably justified for people who are willing to pay the price to satisfy it.

As to comparing Ford with other cars in its price range, by all means do so if you wish. But, as we said before, you'll get a better picture of Ford value by comparing with cars that are most like Fords—those that are priced up to twice as much. In fact, we think you'll quickly begin comparing the other cars with Ford—because the 1953 Ford has really established the New Standard of the American Road.

FOR MODERN LIVING

All of the light, utility, cross-ventilation, convenience, comfort that can be offered in a small five-room home is shown in this house plan.
The kitchen-workroom combination is especially convenient. The closet and laundry in the workroom will provide a place in which the field hands can wash up and leave their outside wraps. If modern equipment is used, the laundry can be done and the family meals prepared at the same time. The four windows offer an unusual amount of window space making the kitchen very light and cool. There is 16 feet of counter space in addition to the table. The table arranged by the two large corner windows will provide an especially nice place to serve the family meals.

The bedrooms are very conveniently located—each with corner windows, thus leaving plenty of wall space for attractive furniture arrangement. Two large closets in each bedroom provide ample storage space; also the linen closet in the hall.

By arranging the living and dining area together, the effect of a very large room has been achieved and the space permits an attractive arrangement with the least amount of furniture. The large fixed window, which opens onto the entrance, could be replaced by ordinary window units or by use of glass block—either is very attractive.

The screened porch on the back has an outside door and gives easy access to the living room; yet it is away from the entrance drive and barns. Hence the greatest possible amount of comfort and privacy is provided. A door opening into the adjoining bedroom could be very easily arranged if it is desired.
The plans on this house show a hip roof; however, the house would be equally attractive with a gable roof if the pitch on the rafters was not steeper than 5 inches rise per foot of run.
You can obtain blueprints for this COURIER FARM & RANCH House Plan No. 4914 and a handy list of materials by which you can figure your construction cost accurately. Send $1 to Building Editor, FARM & RANCH, Dept. E-89, Nashville 10, Tenn. Order by number—plan No. 4914. Blueprints are adequate for any farmer carpenter or for any farmer that is handy with tools.
